

A photograph of the Golden Gate Bridge in San Francisco. The bridge's red towers and suspension cables are visible against a backdrop of rolling hills and a bay. A thick layer of white fog or mist fills the lower half of the image, partially obscuring the bridge's deck. In the foreground, a worker wearing a hard hat and safety harness is perched on a large red steel beam of the bridge, holding a bucket. The overall scene conveys a sense of height and adventure.

ANYWHERE IS PARADISE.
IT'S UP TO YOU.
