I felt very sorry for the young couple who knocked at my door. The man looked very tired and the woman was about to have a baby. "I have no more room in the inn" I told them, "but you can stay in my stable."